

Baltimore-Pittsburgh II – The Rematch in the Ring

When it comes to Baltimore vs. Pittsburgh, the action typically takes place at either Heinz Field in Pittsburgh or M&T Bank Stadium in Baltimore. Wrong! Dead wrong, and Maryland Boxing Hall of Famer/promoter Jake Smith put together boxing shows to prove it.

On March 23, at Michael's Eighth Avenue in Glen Burnie, MD, Smith promoted the first Baltimore-Pittsburgh Boxing competition, and it was a hit. To his pleasant surprise, the contest was held before a raucous, standing room only crowd. What Promoter Jake Smith didn't find surprising was how competitive the fights were.

"Amateurs are easier to match up than pros, because they are willing to fight anybody, and they are willing to lay it on the line. That naturally makes it exciting." Promoter Jake Smith

Dubbed as "The Rematch", Baltimore-Pittsburgh II takes place on May 4 at the Du Burns arena in Baltimore, and this time, you can expect more! Exciting, city rivalry, amateur bouts will be mixed in with a good female fight featuring Amelia Moore of Baltimore taking on Flora Vibe of Pittsburgh. The main event is a barn burner as Maurice Stokes of UMAR gym battles Baltimore Boxing Gym's Jerome Featherstone, a former high school wrestling star that took his talents to the University of Oklahoma and then served in the Marines.

The cat is out of the bag, so this time around ticket sales are brisk, the match ups are set, and everybody, in typical Baltimore-Pittsburgh fashion, is expecting a battle to the final bell.

Football season is over, but the rivalry continues. Help your team get the early momentum by coming out and wearing your colors, supporting your local team, wearing your pride on your sleeve, because the guys in the ring are ready to battle to claim you are #1. This battle is for you Baltimore-Pittsburgh!
